

The New

The celebrated and resume building Sturgeon City Institutes are Open for 2016

The Sturgeon City Institutes offer a unique opportunity for a life enriching experience against the backdrop of the successful Wilson Bay Initiative, a successful environmental project that helped restore the habitat of Wilson Bay. The Institutes are offered as a service of the City of Jacksonville with the sponsorship of the Onslow County School System and operated by Sturgeon City of Jacksonville nonprofit.

The Institutes are open to high school students who want to learn more about their community and the environment, and at the same time, learn about special skills they can use to improve their life experiences.

Students have the opportunity to learn about leadership, police sciences, marine biology, chemistry, engineering and physics through the various institutes offered. Since these institutes run concurrently, students must select only one institute to attend for each session.

Students in the Onslow County and Department of Defense school systems are given preference. It is mandatory that students be in attendance each day of the institute during the scheduled hours.

To apply, complete and return a nomination form to Sturgeon City as soon as possible. The Institute closes when full so applications should be in by May 20. You may also complete an application on-line through the Sturgeon City Website at www.sturgeoncity.org. For some Institutes, additional information will be required before someone is considered for acceptance. For more information, call Sturgeon City at 910 938-6452.
